

(Q) Good "k" for cluster -

- for a good k value, the points within a cluster should have a bound on the distance.

- If points are found within a cluster increase k value by starting the point whose distance was large as the centroid of the extra cluster.

- Stop when the distance of all points with one another within a cluster is found within bound.